

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased from 10.5 million to 12.5 million, and the number of people in the public sector who are employed in health care has increased from 2.5 million to 3.5 million (Department of Health 2000).

There are a number of reasons for the increase in the number of people employed in the public sector. One reason is that the public sector has become a more important part of the economy. Another reason is that the public sector has become a more attractive place to work. A third reason is that the public sector has become a more important part of the welfare state.

The increase in the number of people employed in the public sector has led to a number of changes in the way that the public sector is organized. One change is that the public sector has become more decentralized. Another change is that the public sector has become more market-oriented. A third change is that the public sector has become more customer-oriented.

The changes in the way that the public sector is organized have led to a number of challenges for the public sector. One challenge is that the public sector has become more complex. Another challenge is that the public sector has become more competitive. A third challenge is that the public sector has become more demanding.

The challenges that the public sector faces are a result of the changes in the way that the public sector is organized. The public sector must find ways to meet these challenges in order to continue to provide the services that it is responsible for providing.

One way that the public sector can meet these challenges is by increasing the number of people employed in the public sector. This can be done by recruiting more people to the public sector and by training more people for the public sector.

Another way that the public sector can meet these challenges is by increasing the efficiency of the public sector. This can be done by reducing the number of people employed in the public sector and by increasing the productivity of the people who are employed in the public sector.

The public sector must find ways to meet these challenges in order to continue to provide the services that it is responsible for providing. The public sector must be able to attract and retain the people who are needed to provide these services. The public sector must also be able to provide these services in a way that is efficient and effective.